

We are willing to make our standard warranty against defects in workmanship and failure to deliver as agreed upon from time to time. To us this means:

- We will warranty against all defects in workmanship performed by us.
- We will pass through the warranty against defects in material given by the material supplier.
- We will warranty against defects in the workmanship of any supplier whose selection is within our discretion.
- We will warranty against defects in our designs. We will not be responsible for the defects in design when any part of the design is not ours.
- We will be responsible for logistical compliance by Autocam and any supplier selected by us with respect to agreed upon schedules from time to time.
- We will not warranty for fitness or sufficiency for a specific or intended purpose.
- We will not warranty against General industry or economic conditions.

We believe that our standard warranty requires us to replace the defective part at our cost and to participate in reasonable sorting and inspection costs indicated by the discovery of a defective part that is our responsibility when that discovery is reported in a reasonable commercial time after delivery. In addition, of course, we expect to absorb premium freight charges when our operations are the cause of us not being able to meet agreed upon schedules and capacities. We would expect that this responsibility would pass through us in the case of any supplier we are responsible for.
